JURY DISAGREED.

Mrs. Gov. Atkinson not Proven Guilty of Forgery. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

Gently of Forgery.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NOUTE REPORT.]

GLENVILLE (W. Va..) Oct. 13.—The jury in the famous case of Mrs. Gov. Atkinson on trial for forgery of her former husband's name, disagreed to-day and were discharged by the court. The jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction. It is not believed that the case will be tried again. The arguments and judges' charges were completed at il o'clock last night.

Mrs. Atkinson had been on the stand ten hours. Her testimony was a gentral denial of the alleged charges in the indictments. She did not waver from the statement on cross-examination that all the receipts in controlversy given to Owens were written at the dictation of Judge Camden in his lifetime, and that they represented what they show upon their face. She insisted that all the other papers and transactions relied upon by the state to show eriminal intention were genuine and instituted at the dictation of Judge Camden. She denied that she had any interest whatever in the Owens land, or that Owens had at any time path her money or any other thing of value. The cross-examination was conducted by Robert J. Linn for the State, and was very rigid. Mrs. Atkinson's demeasure upon the witness stand was nodest and unassuming. She made a favorable impression.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Atkinson's testimony at 5 o'clock last evening, the structions to the jury were impartial, and the case was given to the twelve meen.

At 1:15 a.m., the jury asked for instructions to the jury were impartial, and the case was given to the twelve meen.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Adolph Luetgert shed tears this afternoon when, at the adjournment of the court, he took leave of his little son. Early in the day he showed signs of emotion, and his eyes were moist as Attorney Pifilen pleaded with the jury to spare his client's lift. Luetgert is breaking down. This was the universal verdict of those who have watched the man during the two months of his trial. The strain upon him is great, and at last his nervous system is weakening. The grant sausage-maker does not sleep well at sausage-maker does not sleep well at night of late. AFTERNOON ACCOUNT.

[ASSOCIATED PRISS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Attorney Phalen opened the argument to the jury on behalf of Luetgert this morning, and occupied the attention of the court all day. One of the incidents of the session was the appearance of Luetgert's little sons, who had not been in court for several weeks. They climbed upon their father's knees and he fondied, them white the atorney talked. In response to the quiet objection of Assistant State's Attorney McEwan, Judge Tuthill ordered that they be seated apart from their father. In a loud tone Attorney Vincent objected to the removal, and Judge Tuthill retorted: "Oh, your object is plain enough, and I will not permit it." To this remark the defendant's counsel took an exception, but the court promptly curtailed the discussion and ordered the counsel to proceed with the argument.

These five children of a farmer named Reiliey of Moss Landing were brought to the city by Frank Holbrook, sccretary of the Eureka Children's Society, and by his intervention the unnatural father of these unfortunates was lodged in jail at Castroville, where he will answer charges of unusual cruelty. The complaint was sworn to by Reiliey's eldest daughter, Mrs. Schrenberg, a widow living in this city, who recently went to her father's ranch to see her little brothers and sisters. She learned that they were living on what scraps they could pick up, on berries from the woods, and wheat, which they chewed in lieu of bread. She learned that they had lived this way for three years, since Reiliey took to his farm an English woman whom he called his wife; that the children were completely isolated, and that this woman kept rooms for Reiliey and herself, where they cooked and ate and lived in comfort.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A valuable col-lection of amber is being exhibited in London, which is attracting much attention from both naturalists and the public. Most people know that amber away in the dim ages, was gum of the most transparent and liquid kind, most transparent and liquid kind, which cozed from the pines growing in countries near to what is the Baltic Sea of our day. The trees decayed and mingled with the soil, but the resin was stored up by nature, and when, as the centuries rolled on the earth began to sink and the sea washed over what was once dry land, the wood soil was upheaved and the hard gum over what was once dry land, the wood soil was upheaved and the hard gum carried off by the waves to be dropped to the bottom of the ocean. There the action of the water, in the course of further ages, slowly converted the lumps of resin into the fossil, which ocean currents have since disturbed, and often cast back on the coasts.

It was in oozing from the pine trees that the liquid resin caught up in its course insects and other things, which have been wonderfully preserved. Ants and spiders, lichen and leaves, flowers and fruit of species and kinds unknown to recorded history, are to be examined with as much facility as if they stood on an object glass, and of such a delicate consistency was evidently this trickling gum that the winged insects have been imprisoned without the slightest damage to their fragile forms. The finest specimen in the London collection contains a fly, very much like the species which today is common the world over. It seems to forms. The finest specimen in the London collection contains a fly, very much like the species which today is common the world over. It seems to be poised in mid-air, the wings outstretched in the most natural fashion, with the light playing on their gausy texture, and showing them in everchanging hues. The legs are long, and the fine hairs covering them are plainly discernable; even the eyes are preserved.

There are some ten insects in another piece of amber about an inch square, including a couple of spiders and an insect looking very much like a mosquito. Another specimen contains five flies, and while it is evident, from the peaceful attitude of four of them, that the overwhelming process was immediately effectual, one appears to have given a last kick, and that death struggle of an insect many thousands of years ago is plainly recorded today in the disturbed appearance of the fossilized gum.

Another small block holds a spider of quite ferocious aspect and his eager attitude would almost suggest that he was already on the track of a victim when death overwhelmed him instead. Imprisoned in yet another piece is a spider which appears to have died while in the act of carrying to a safe place its white sack of eggs. Feathers of birds, the wood of extinct trees, the hairs of mammalia, lizards, and scorpions are also found in amber; and so fine and thin must have been the gum in its original state that in flowing it took casts of most beautiful and microscopic forms, and of plants and leaves of trees long since passed away. In cutting the amber containing insects, the great object is to clear away the stone so as to leave the imprisoned specimen as near the surface as possible. Much care and skill is required in the task, for if the cut is made too deep, and the air reaches the insect, it immediately disappears in minute particles of dust.

RELATION BETWEEN LIQUOR LAWS AND DEATH RATES.

Prohibitionists will rejoice to see the confirmation of the wisdom of their principles afforded in some figures which have been collected to show the effect of stringent liquor laws upon the death rate of Sweden and Norway. For the twenty years before 1894 the average death rate per 1000 persons living in Sweden was 17.5 per annum, and the rate for Norwhy was 16.9 per 1000 per annum. The consumption of alcohol by the Swedes in those years amounted to the equivalent of 2.65 Finglish gallons of proof spirit per head per annum: that of the Norwegians to about 1.75 gallons. In 1855 the temperance law was enacted in Sweden, and by 1860 it had come pretty fully into operation. The death rate decreased gradually with the gradual decrease of the consumption of alcohol. Between 1851 and 1860 the death rate of the Swedes was 21.7 per 100 per annum, and for that period the consumption of alcohol in Sweden per annum per head of the inhabitants was nearly three times as much as it is now. The decrease in the death rate in the twenty years ending 1894, was 4.2 per 1000 per annum. The reason the temperance law was enacted in Sweden was that intemperance was sapping the health and strenght of the nation. Just before the law came into force 38 per cent. of the conscripts drawn for military service had to be rejected as physically unfit. By the time the law had been thirty years in operation the proportion rejected had been reduced to 20 per cent. THE PREVALENCE OF UNCLEAN

BARBERING A well-known physician says, in re-gard to the orders just issued to bargard to the orders just issued to barbers by the sanitary authorities of Paris, "The French have just done more for civilization than Napoleon ever did." In future, the scissors, razors, clippers, brushes and combs of the Paris barbers must be carefully cleansed and disinfected before usage, and the overator himself must wash his hands before passing from one customer to another. The question now arises, why should not some similar sanitary rules be enforced in this country? Few people realize the danger of infection which they face in the barber's chair. There is no reason why a barber should take less care of his tools than a surgeon takes of his; but he always does. The comb and brush, for instance, are never quite so clean tools than a surgeon takes of his; but he always does. The comb and brush, for instance, are never quite so clean as they might be, and the barber will never take time to see that they are unless he is compelled by law to do so. Thousands of people owe the dropping out of their hair to dandruff or other scalp allments caught from the brush and comb of the barber.

Again, in the shaving of a man who has eruptions on his face, one of the sores may be broken, and the blood will adhere to the razor, and also to the lather brush which goes over the man's face a second time. The next person who sits in the chair has an excellent chance to be inoculated should his skin also be broken by the barber. Sponges, too, and pleces of alum for styptic purposes are made to serve for one customer after another without any steps being taken to antisepticize them. In fact, the whole present system of barbering is practically unclean, and it is to be hoped that the example of Paris will soon be generally followed in America.

MACHINE FOR SEALMAN

MACHINE FOR SEALING ENVEL-

A new envelope-sealing machine is being tried in a government office. The being tried in a government office. The machine works something like a printing press. The envelopes are fed into rollers, one of which is moistened from a small trough of water through which it revolves. A folder closes the envelope, which then passes through two other rollers, is pressed, and dropped into a receptacle. The machine is run either by electric motor or by pedal. It is claimed that it will seal 250 envelopes a minute when the operator becomes a minute when the operator becomes expert. In a recent test, a batch of 27,000 circulars is said to have been easily sealed by one machine in some hing over three hours.

MONEY FROM SUNFLOWERS. MONEY FROM SUNFLOWERS.

A Long Island farmer, who had more land than he knew what to do with, has put forty acres into sunflower cultivation. A fine table oil, worth $1.25 a gallon, is made from the sunflower seeds, which yield two and a half gallons of oil to the bushel. The estimated yield of one hundred bushels of seed to the acre should give a handsome profit on the oil. The cake left after the oil has been pressed is one of the best forms of poultry food, and the the best forms of poultry food, and the sunflower is to be run in conjunction with a poultry yard of about three thousand chickens. The sunflower stalks will be made into a fine fiber, for which them. for which there is a great demand in the manufacture of a certain drapery the texture of which closely resembles silk. The new industry is said to promise well. silk. The ne

A CURIOUS FEATURE OF THE COAL-TRADE SITUATION. COAL-TRADE SITUATION.

A mining journal makes the statement that, strange as it may seem, the prosperity of the anthracite trade is inseperable from the future of the detached house. If you take enough people to fill a big hotel or tenement house, you can warm them with one furnace, that may be fed with a mixture of soft coal and anthracite screenings, while, on the other hand, should every family have a detached home which has to be warmed in winter, a very large demand for anthracite coal must continue. So firmfly does this conviction obtain with some of the larger coal firms that they are insisting on every one interested in the increased use of anthracite, making it a point to support by every means in their power, the laying down of trolley lines, which will enable the workingman to get out of the confines of the city and to own a home.

PATENT LIFE-SAVING BELT.

Among recent English patents is a belt for saving life, which consists of a band of canvas with cork layers at intervals. Attached to the belt are four floats, or bladders of rubber, with a protective covering. This is strapped around the body, under the arms, the bladders being inflated with air by the wearer by blowing through a tube which runs around the belt, and is fitted with a self-closing valve. The filling takes less than half a minute. Equipped with one of these belts, a man can walk into deep water with his clothes and shoes on, and be supported with ease in a perpendicular position without making any effort. He can, in fact, smoke a cigar while in the water. This life-preserver does not prevent its wearer from swimming, but if he is exhausted, it enables him to float in an erect position, it being impossible for his head to fall under the water. A passenger at sea who is nervous can wear the belt under his clothes without its being noticed by his fellow-travelers.

THE DROSOPHORE. PATENT LIFE-SAVING BELT.

THE DROSOPHORE. The question of imparting just the right degree of humidity to the atmosphere of some classes of workshops where textile fabrics are manufactured has always been a puzzle. Another industrial bugbear, which in dry cold weather causes much annovance tured has always been a puzzle. Another industrial bugbear, which, in dry, cold weather, causes much annoyance in paper trades is static electricity. It is so active that it is not unusual for sheets of paper to adhere to each other in printing offices, binderies and similar places, so that they will tear in separating. Belts, too, on all kinds of machinery generate, often, quite a charge of static electricity, and the sparking from them is looked upon as a fire hazard by the insurance companies.

To remedy this class of disturbances, an ingenious invention, known as the drosophere, is being used in France. The apparatus consists of two systems of pipes. The upper one, the inlet pipe, governed by a stop-cock, has two discharge pipes, in opposite directions, so placed that two fine streams of water are thrown up and down against each other, breaking the liquid into almost foggy ispray. This is deflected upward and outward near the ceiling, whence it falls in almost imperceptible moisture, just sufficient for the purpose of dampening textile fabrics, or paper, and dissipating electricity. In hot weather, the jet of moisture cools the air, while in winter the water can be heated, and so made to moisten and warm the air at the same time.

Word to Parents, Remember your children's teeth need attention so as to have the permanent teeth make a presentable appearance. While they are young they can be remedied easily, many aches and ills avoided, while if neglected it takes time and suffering to accomplish the same result. My little boy, 5 years old, had suffered a great deal with toothache, and his teeth were unusually badly decayed for one so young—in fact, so much so that other dentists and that nothing could be done, and that his teeth must be extracted. I heard of Dr. Schiffman and decided to give him a trial. The Doctor filled and saved all of the little teeth (some fifteen or sixteen filliuss), and did it all without even the slightest pain. He also filled three teeth and extracted two teeth for my little girl, aged 10, without a narticle of pain. I am delighted with the Doctor's work and take great pleasure in recommending him to all.

DEATH OF DR. SCOTT HELM.

NECESSITY FOR A MOVE-ON ORDI-

An Arizona Pooh Bah-Rich Output of Onyx Quarries—Oak Creek to be Restocked—Danger from Road Agents.

PHOENIX, Oct. 9.-[Regular Correspondence.] The making of a health and fashion resort of the Castle Creek and fashion resort or the Castle Creek Hot Springs is progressing. The wagon grade dut from Vulture siding to the springs has been completed, and is the best mountain road in the Territory. A stage line will be put on soon. Now comes the question of whether it shall first be pushed on the hotel or cottage plan. Later both will be built, but the question of which shall be built first will not be settled till October 15. Al-ready $50,000 has been spent there. An outlay of $250,000 is contemplated.

A SLOWLY-ARRIVING RAILROAD. The toot of the whistle of the loco-motive on the proposed Arizona and Pacific cannot yet be heard very plainly in Phoenix, but by putting one's ear to the ground, and straining the tympanum good and hard something may be heard akin to near railroads. may be heard akin to near railroads. In fact, work has been resumed on the survey of the line from Deming, N. M., via the Gila Valley and Globe to Phoenix. The survey was suspended at Solomonville three weeks ago. Now it has been ordered resumed, and a dozen men are in the field. Their route will be down the Gila Valley, to Geronimo, San Carlos, Globe, Florence, Mesa and Phoenix.

DEATH OF DR. SCOTT HELM. Dr. Scott Helm has been killed by a fall form a horse. From the moment the doctor examined him it was patthe doctor examined him it was patent that he was beyond any relief. Surgery could not replace the base of the brain, and while the pulse beat strongly an hour or two, and his breathing was regular, the wait was only the more painful for the inevitable death, whose coming in this case could be announced almost to the moment. The funeral, which takes place tomorrow afternoon at 3, will probably be the longest cortege seen in Phoenix in years. Dr. Helm was a member of the Masons, Woodmen, Foresters, Knights of Pythias, Redmen and Elks, besides being an honorary member of the fire department and National Guard, holding the rank of colonel in the latter.

PHOENIX BREVITIES.

The 9,000,000 mark desired by the

PHOENIX BREVITIES.

The 9,000,000 mark desired by the Board of Equalization was not quite reached in Maricopa county, although in was crowded pretty close. The total valuation was $8,798,942. The county rate is $2.25, or the lowest in the Territory. The taxes to be collected are $198,818.70, of which $76,929.50 will go to the Territory.

The city sidewalks are about to be withdrawn from the public for use as cuspidors. The ordinance bearing on that question will henceforth be enforced. The sum total of $1 in fines has been collected by the city during the life of the ordinance. In that term it is a low estimate to say that the ordinance has been violated 1,000,000 times.

Another need in the way of sidewalk, requirements in Phoenix is a "move on" ordinance. Some hundreds of per sons of the male persuasion here ar sons of the male persuasion here are under a misapprehension as to the functions of a sidewalk. A sidewalk, they firmly believe, is for the accommodation of idlers, that they may stand thereon. As for pedestrians, they do not signify. They can go into the street, for it is plain that they need step only every block or so into the mud, while the idlers, if they could not have the sidewalk, must perforce stand in the roadway percetually. Phoenix the roadway perpetually. Phoenix badly needs a move-on requirement, part/cularly on Washington street, be-tween Center and First streets. Riggen, the slayer of dogs, whose specially was shooting fine animals in specialty was shooting fine animals in such a manner as to attract admiration of his workmanship from ladies and children, was fined the costs of his suit before a Territorial court. Of vastly more importance, however, was the decision, which held that the shooting in the limits was illegal. This was a pretty hard blow to the City Council as they would seem to much prefer that dogs be shot down to impounding and killing them by humane and decent methods.

The leasing of valley school lands added $1500 to the Territorial treasury. The enlarging of the Arizona Canai is a big task, and goes forward slowly. It took 150 men and corresponding teams ten days to clean out two miles of the canal, a good deal of blasting being necessary. Water has been turned in for a couple of days, to enable stockmen to fill their watering tanks.

The new Union High School will present a highly creditable appearance when completed, although that will be six weeks hence, owing to delay in the arrival of material. Meanwhile school goes on very comfortably at the college building on Center street.

A special city election will be held the 6th of November to elect an alderman for the Third Ward, to succeed Councilman Loeckler, deceased.

The examinations by the new Board of Medical Examiners are rigid enough to keep out quacks, and perhaps some pretty fair sort of M. D.'s who are not quacks. Five applicants recently undertook the ordeal, four failing. The fifth pronounced it the severest he had ever taken.

In addition to a dozen or so of business blocks, forty residences are in the ness blocks, forty residences are in the course of erection in Phoenix. All are of a good class, the average of cost being probably $1500 or $1800.

FLAGSTAFF.

FLAGSTAFF, Oct. 9 .- [Regular Correspondence.] Of late years the ghost of Sir Isaak Walton has done some tall walking in the vicinity of Oak Creek, presumably because of the van-dalism—if the word is permissible— of that once glorious trout stream. of that once glorious trout stream. Of late years fingerlings have been the only fish to be had there, and even these have been ruthlessly taken. Game laws have signified nothing in the protection of finny beauties. Now comes the gratifying intelligence that Oak Creek is to be restocked with Rainbow trout, at government expense. The fish will be along between now and October 25. If care is not taken the pot hunters will take the new fish from the barrels before they are put into the stream.

The proposed railroad from the Santa Fé Pacific to the Grand Cañon is now certain of completion. Williams and Flagstaff are both bidding for the connecting point, with the result very much in doubt. The capitalists are now on the ground, piloted by the ubiquitous Buckey O'Neill, who is fathering the project. The declaration is made that within a week the surveying and grading forces will be at work. Buckey's Populist theories do not run away with his practice. He could have waited till doomsday getting the government to build his railroad for him, but instead he got some old-fashioned capitalist to do it. The Southern Pacific Company has special armed guards on its passenger I trains now for fear of a hold-up. One evening last week armed men rode into Bowie Station just before the arrival of the westbound train. Their actions led to the suspicion that a train robbery was contemplated. The robbers were folled in their scheme by the prompt action of Engineer Wood Walker and Postal Clerk C. H. Wild, who frightened them off with guns.

THE OPENING DAY weather bureau says that indica tions for fair weather today are good, although there may be light showers. The heavy rain during the earlier hours of last night changed the whole complexion of the racing to go at the opening of the annual fair this afternoon. Horses that were considered to be entirely out of this race or that one, owing to speedy company, will this o speedy company, will be looked upon as having owing to speedy company, will this morning be looked upon as having more than a chance to win.

There are comparatively few mudlarks among either trotting, pacing or running horses. Most of the high-bred animals want a dry track, and it is only once in a while that the horses who go best on a soft or even slushy track get a chance to run under their favorite conditions. The rain last night, while it will not make the track at Agricultural Park muddy, unless followed by constant showers today, will certainly soften it up and make it heavier going for some of the sprinters than was calculated on. This means slower time in the 2:12 trot and running races, perhaps, but it also means a much more interesting race in at least one if not all the events, since, as stated, the heavy going will open up chances for all the horses, where before it looked as if a speedy few had everything their own way.

But, rain or shine, the managers say, the races will go, and no such races as they will be have ever been seen in Southern California, even if the horses are started in a downpour.

The full opening-day programme will be given, and should the sun come out and stay out, full and warm, all the forenoon today, the rain of last night will prove a benefit rather than a detriment to the sport. The track is in such condition that one or two heavy rains cannot effect it materially, and will, in fact, help it with continued fair weather, and it will get faster and better as the meeting proceeds.

AN EARLY START.

Patrons of the track this year should Patrons of the track this year should bear in mind that the racing will start each day at 1 o'clock sharp. The programmes for each day of the meet are unusually long, and in order to pull off every event, an early start is a necessity. Everything has been done to make those who attend comfortable and no one should miss the opening events. A few feet on the inside of the track was harrowed up for the runners yesterday, and this will make the trotters and pacers go a long, mile, but 2:10 will probably be beaten during the day. The 2:12 pace will be the first race called today, and will have but three stariers. Anaconda, who defeated Joe Wheeler at the breeders' meeting at Oakland, is considered the best of the trio, but he will have to reduce his record of 2:11½ to beat Our Boy, who was very close up when defeated by Wing, the professional bicycle rider, in 2:08 at San José last week.

The principal running race on the programme is the Citrus Belt Handicap, guaranteed value $1000, and not less than eight of the ten who have accepted the weights will line up at the barrier this afternoon.

This will be a great race, greater than it would have been without the rain, since it gives every horse entered a show for the money. Crescendo is sick and will not start; Argentina has been scratched, probably to save her for two hard races later in the week: Chartreuse is out, and so is Fortunate; Flashlight will not go, but the rest will, and they will go fast at that. The handicapper has adjusted the weights so nicely that every horse in the race appears to have a chance, and while the plungers may force one into pronounced favoritism, the race has a very open look, and it would not be a great surprise to see the event won by a horse who has been given the overlook by the heavy bettors.

The Maiden Plate will bring together a full dozen of aristocratically-bred two-year-olds, and an upset 'is very liable to occur, as the betting public has only a very limited "line" on the merits of many of the starters. They are practically unknown in a race, alike by their owners and the public, and it will be the bettor who has one guess and guesses the winner that will be lucky.

Ever since his retirement from Sacramento, the ex-Governor has been living very quietly in his home at Pasadena, where he is surrounded with all the luxuries of an abundant income. Markham is a comparatively rich man, for he owns considerable mining property, and his investments in that direction have been in the main very successful.

When he left the Governor's chair he did so under what some thought was a political cloud. Dan Burns, it will be remembered, had resigned his Police Commissionership, and Markham appointed Gunst in his place. Up went a howl from the purists. They said that it was an outrage—that Gunst was in every way unfitted for the place, and they held him up to reproach, and condemned Markham with bitter invectives.

Every word of that prophesy has been realized over and over again. From the very outset Gunst proved, as Markham said he would, that he not only had every ability for the place, but that he was particularly adapted to it by reason of his business associations and training. The present high standard of the San Francisco police force is to a great extent due to Gunst's personal efforts, and Markham's action in appointing him has long ago been more than vindicated.

LOS ANGELES-La Boheme BURBANK-The District Attorney.
ORPHEUM-Vaudeville.

WANTED-A CITY GOVERNMENT. What Los Angeles appears to need is a city government, one that will afford us decent streets, made so by proper paving and cleaning; adequate ordinances for the proper conduct of business in a big city, and the carrying out of needed improvements with out everlastingly procrastinating-in a word, we want a government that will conduct the affairs of the municipality without fear or favor and not be forever figuring and evading for fear of a loss of votes. Los Angeles, in many respects is in a deplorable condition, and reason is because the City Council does politics instead When will lawmakers learn that the right course, the straight course, the brave course, always win in any walk of life? God hates a coward; and man despises a trimmer who shuffles, evades, dallies and puts things off. The members of the present City Council who will be found strong before the people in the future are the ones who are found meeting every issue as it comes up as brave and hones men should, and the log-rollers and fence-builders will go to the wall.

Los Angeles is a city more favored by nature than any other on the continent. Over it bends the bluest of blue skies, and for nearly three hundred days of the year it is steeped in sunshine; God in His majesty and goodness has done everything for it, but the municipality's public servants tritter away time; they lose opportunities; they let things run down at the heel, and they conduct affairs on much the same line as does the farmer who leaves his plows sticking in the ground to rust all winter, and his reaper to the torrents that pour from a murky sky.

For months the public has been demanding that something be done to improve the condition of the streets but not a move is made. For months a demand has been made that the streets be decently swept, but they are like plg sties. A universal cry has been going up for a hitching ordinance, but we have none worthy of the name, and it is so all along the line. Is it any wonder that people are disgusted, disheartened and discouraged; that public officials are under suspicion; that organizations are forming with a hope to the improvement of civic conditions, and that the populace is ready to welcome Baron Haussman-who will take the bull by the horns and do something?

Next to a corrupt council is a do nothing-council. Los Angeles been cursed with one or the other from time immemorial. In the name of high heaven cannot something be done to give us a city governmen that has nerve, industry and back bone? The people long for such an in stitution and stand ready to glorify its members. When will we get it?

A NEW STYLE OF PRISON.

At a meeting of the New York Penological Society, held last week, a new style of prison was discussed. It is thus described:

"The four walls and roof which con tain it may be built of almost any material, as the central revolving ylinder of cells renders it impossible for a prisoner to escape. This cylinder is made of the best iron obtainable, the whole mounted on ball bearings. It may be revolved at the will of the official in charge. A water or electric motor is generally used, although the bearings are so well adverted that it is a server or the control of the c usted that it is easy to move it by means of a hand crank and rack Each cell is shaped like a hollow wedge, the smaller end touching the wlinder's core, while the outside shell big end. These cells are of iler iron, so hard that the illed boiler iron, so hard that the snest file or finest-tempered chisel unid hardly make an impression on. There are no doors, though each il has an opening for going in and t. This, however, cannot be used cept when exactly opposite a corsponding opening in the entrance, two cells on the same tier may be ened at the same time. Outside the linder of cells, but disconnected the it, is the wire cage, and this linder of cells, but disconnected the it, is the wire cage, and this oks like a stationary squirrel-cage heel on end. The prisoners are out for exercise singly, the cag ing just far enough to bring lening of the next cell into line movement of the hand, and a movement fastens the cage in

TO EXTEND OUR POREIGN TRADE

The National Association of Manufacturers, among other plans for the extension of American trade in foreign markets, proposes to establish a system of sample warehouses in the leading markets of the world. In connection with these warehouses it. is proposed to introduce certain features of a distinctly educational character, designed to afford to young Americans the needed facilities for the practical study of foreign markets and trade. The first warehouse in the system is soon to be established in Caracas, Venezuela, and it is proposed to make its course of instruction a "post-graduate commercial course," so to speak, by means of which young Americans will be enabled to gain a thorough knowledge of the Latin-American market with as little loss of time as possible. Among the facilities to be afforded are the following:

(1.) Study of the Spanish language by the aid of competent teachers, in-cluding such work as the translation of es, circulars, letters, etc. (2.) Practical correspondence i Spanish and English, banking, collect Spanish and English, Danking, Confec-tions, etc.

(3.) Practical study of commercial laws, including tariff, custom, patent and trade-mark regulations, etc.
(4.) Thorough study of freight and transportation routes, rates and every-thing pertaining to the shipment of goods.

(5.) Practical office work.

(6.) A thorough study of some perticular branch of the various lines represented by exhibits, as nearly as possible in harmony with the personal preferences and previous training of the applicant, by giving him charge as general representative of such department after he has acquired the needed training for such work.

An explication.

An applicant desiring to enter the hardware department, for example, will be required to gather, with the aid of the general management, all possible information relating to that branch of trade; that is, general information regarding the lines of hardware sold in Venezuela, selling prices and cost of various articles, where they are purchased, their quality as com pared to American goods, the import duties in Venezuela, freight rates, how goods should be packed, annual importations and possible extent of trade names of leading merchants, etc., etc.

This work will familiarize the applicant with the business customs of the country, and will result in the gather ing of information which will be an invaluable aid in exending American trade. It will also give to the student if the work be faithfully performed, a good, all-around business experience, which will be of inestimable value to him in the practical affairs of trade.

If we are to gain a footing in the South and Central American markets, we must adopt practical, common sense methods to attain that end. One of the most serious obstacles which we have encountered in this direction, in the past, is the lack of experienced men, with a knowledge of the needs of those markets. The supremacy of English and German manufacurers and traders in the Spanish American markets is due in large part to the fact that they have made thorough study of trade conditions and needs in those markets, and have adapted their methods and their merchandise to those conditions The Na tional Association of Manufacturers hopes to accomplish similar results through the establishment of its warehouse sytsem, and the plan, upon its face, appears feasible.

The Attorney-General has given a strong and clear statement of the reasons why the case of Theodore Durrant should be advanced on the calendar of the Supreme Court. When he states "that, by reason of this proceeding and others of like character now pending in this court, the enforcement of the criminal laws of the State of California are hampered and thwarted, and the laws of that State for the administration of justice and the punishment of crime are rendered largely nugatory and brought into derision and contempt,' he gives utterance to a fact of vital noment to this people. For the sake of the public peace, for the conservation of law and order, it is to be hoped that the court at Washington may give this case a speedy hearing that the army of thugs and cut-throats now rotting in prison may meet the doom they have earned and to which they have been sentenced. Justice in Califor nia has been made a fool of all to long already. The people demand the enforcement of the decrees of the State courts by the prompt execution of criminals that law may be respected and right prevail.

One Capt. Hall of Fort Sheridan, adjacent to Chicago, claims that it is the proper caper to drag a soldier of the United States army across a parade ground by the heels because he will not do police duty in camp. Capt. Hall is going to have to submit to a difference of opinion on the part of the great American public, and we trust to a court martial. There must be some better way to discipline a recalcitrant private than to drag him around the neighborhood of headquarters in the dirt with the officer of the day elaborating the event by prodding the prostrate man with sword and kicking him on the head with the boot of the snip who happens to be in command. The time is especially opportune for some one to do unpleasant things to Capt. Hall. Soldiers who disobey orders deserve to be disciplined, but there are enough reasonable and legal ways of inflicting nunishment.

Railway bandits are now pressing the limit of human endurance. If a passenger cannot strike out for a trip somewhere without having his collar shot off, as happened to a man in Texas the other day, it is high time to find out about it. The first thing those robbers know the passengers are going to get weary of these goings-on and will rise up and do somebody serious injury. This collar business is carrying a joke a little too far.

The Louisville Commercial reports that the registration in that city, which has just closed, aggregates 45,780 names, or 468 more names than were registered for the Presidential election one year ago. The Commercial expresses the firm conviction that the Republicans will carry the city in the coming election by a majority of at least 5000. What a shaking-up this will be for the home of the star-eyed goddess.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. Last night's storm played havoc with the attendance at the opera, but it did not dampen the enthusiasm of those who praved the wet streets, nor did it cause the singers to withhold their dower of genius; hence there was a masterful presentation of Verdi's great opera of florid music, "The Masked Ball," which served to introduce Sig. Collenz, who has the greatest tenor voice ever heard in Los Angeles, with out exception. It is a tenor robusto, big, full, and splendid, that rings out with force and fire, filling the theater until it seems all too cramped for the with force and fire, filling the theater until it seems all too cramped for the exercise of a vocal organ of such majestic proportions. The singer was heard to excellent advantage in the aria in the first act, and in the lone duet with Amelia in act three there was an exceptionally brilliant display of his wonderful capacity. This number was rewarded by an ovation from the audience so generous and extended that the duo was graciously repeated. All through the closing act and in the death scene at the finale, Sig. Collenz not only showed his power as a singer, but in the latter that he had histrionic ability of a high order. His work was a revelation.

This great artist is but 27 years of age, and a native of Trieste, Austria. His master was Rota, brother of the famous baritone for whom "Ruy Blas" was composed. He made his début in the Apollo Theater at Trieste, and after singing in several of the operahouses in his native country, went to Italy, appearing first in the San Carlo Theater at Naples, where he replaced the famous Rawner, who was incapacitated by indisposition, in the part of Radames in "Aida." Collenz has sung in nearly all the principal capitals of Europe, and has also ppeared at Cairo and Alexandria in Egypt. We predict for him great fame in the United States, a land that appreciates genius of any character, and rewards it with the most lavish generosity of applause, and that more substantial substance which wins for its owner the good and beautiful things of life.

Mile. Linda Montanari, who assumed the leading soprano role, that of Amelia, the wife of Renato, has a voice of superb quality, and is an actress of strong emotional power. Her method is excellent, and the voice with which she is endowed is very sweet, resonant and handled, especially in the bravura passages, with most consummate Mile. C. Vicini, as Oscar, a page, made a charming appearance, and sang the music of the score with excellent effect. Señorita B. Franco, who appeared as Ulrica, the witch, is much too juvenile for the role, especially as there was no apparent attempt at make-up, but she sang the music of the part most beautifully. She has a contrait of excellent timbre, and most charming freshness, and gives promise of a great future.

The absence of make-up in this opera is so marked as to deserve the attention of the management. Sam and Tom are supposed, according to the argument, to be negroes, but they appears without argument, to be negroes, but they appear without the slightest dash of burnt cork, and in the elaborate costume of courtiers, which, of course, is all wrong. The same criticism may be made as to the witch, as alluded to above. An improvement might be made also by removing the prompter from the wings to a prompt box. The music of this opera is elaborately brilliant, and trying upon singers, and while it has the harmonic quality of all the great Italian composer's compositions, there is little in it to make it a "popular" opera. Its story is very indifferently told in the programme in these words:

Amelia, the wife of the Governor's secretary, meets the witch at night in quest of a remedy for her passion for Ricardo, who, of course, has also been fascinated by her. They arrive about the same time, and he overhears the witch telling her to go to a lonely spot, where she will find an herb potent enough to cure her of her evil desires. The Governor follows her, and during their interview the secretary hurriedly rushes upon the scene to notify him that conspirators are on his track. He throws a veil over Amelia's face, and orders Renato, the secretary, to conduct her to a place of safety, without seeking to know who she is. He consents and the Governor conceals himself in the forest. The conspirators meanwhile meet the pair, and in the confusion Amelia drops her veil, thus revealing herself to Renato. Furious at the Governor's perfidy, he joins the conspirators. In the denouement the secretary stabs his master at a masquerade, and the latter, while dying attests the purity of Amelia, and magnanimously gives his secretary a commission appointing him to a high position in England."

The first production in this city of Puccini's grand opera, "La Boheme," which has been such a shining success in European theaters, will be the attraction this evening. The opera had its initial performance at the Teatro Reale of Turin, Italy, in February, 1896, and since then it has been played throughout Europe with general approval. The argument is melo-dramatic and realistic, and it is the conventional one, a romance of love. The librettists, Guiseppe Glaconia and Luigi Illica, have arranged the situations in excellent form, and the impressions conveyed in their work are not misleading.

The story is one of never-flagging interest. In fact, the plot becomes more interesting and more entertaining as it nears the end of the romance, and it is the more interesting because it presents anew the exhaustless power of love, and because its art is perfect, its telling masterful.

Criticism was made by the audience on the opening night of the season of the De Conte Company, because no argument was furnished in the programme, of "La Gioconda," The local management state that this was no fault of theirs, as they made every effort to secure the information, but were unable to do so in time. There is no longer any doubt of the death candos have reached that city. There is no longer any dout of the death of Antonio Conselheiro, the fanatic leader. He was killed early in the battle, but the fact of his death did not become generally known until after the fighting had been going on for several hours. When they learned of it, the fanatics, who, up to that time, had been fighting savagely, lost heart and were killed by the hundreds.

"Conselheiro's body was found in one of the streets of Canudos. Around him were the bodies of about one hundred of his personal guard, who had died in a last desperate fight to save their chief. The bodies were fearfully mutilated. Beside the body of Conselheiro lay an imperial flag, a red cross on a white background.

"The capture of the city was accomplished by the government troops with the aid of the torch and dynamite. When the fanatics saw certain defeat, they applied the torch to many of the houses, and scores of them rushed in and were burned to death, preferring that to surrender. A singular feature of the case is the multiplicity of defenses the bondsmen will make. She has no recollection of having signed the instrument. The bondsmen assert that if Mrs. Fitzgerald's signature is not legal, then the whole bond is illegal.

We commend to the people of Los Angeles the action of a New York judge who reprimanded policemen for chewing gum in court. The judge went on to say: "Gum chewing, although it isn't positively offensive, like tobacco spitting, is the height of vulgarity. It may be tolerable for athletes who have special need of working their salivary glands in order to keep their mouths moist; or it may serve to soothe the nerves of a billiard player in undergoing the strains of a great match. But it distorts the face, gives it a slatternly and careless aspect, and offends the rule requiring people to finish their dinner before rising from the table. [San Diego Sun, Sept. 28, 1897:] The Tribune last evening stated editorially "the Chamber of Commerce don't care to send choice fruits and products up to Los Angeles to lie rotting under tables, while a decayed display is spread out on said tables."

Two directors of the local Chamber of Commerce who were casually seen today, talked as follows:

J. E. O'Brien: "I didn't read the editorial, but I must say there has always been the friendliest feelings, officially speaking, between the two institutions. I am sure the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has always treated our exhibit fairly and has always treated our exhibit fairly and has always ut the fruit and suff sent there in good positions. Indeed, they could not afford to do anything else. I don't think such a thing should have been published."

think such a thing should have been published."

H. P. Wood: "I regret very much that publicity has been given to any such statement. I believe the officials of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce have always dealt fairly and honestly by us."

In previous interviews the directors of the local chamber have not only expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with the treatment given the San Diego exhibit, but have also expressed a high sense of the value of the exhibit.

Internal Revenue Collector John C. Lynch, Col. Dan Burns, Judge Brooks, Judge Henshaw, Assemblyman Sig Bettman and Al Murnhy arrived on the noon train yesterday from San Francisco. They were met at the depot by Col. Freeman G. Teed and Guy Barham with a drag and escorted to the California Club. The gentlemen are here to attend the races and incidentally to do politics and other things.

The report reached the city yesterday afternoon that fifteen boys had made their escape from the State Reform School at Whittier. The usual alarm was given, and the residents and farmers in the vicinity promptly turned out to join in the hunt for the runaways. Some of the boys were still at large last night.

A delightful luncheon was given by Mrs. J. S. Vosburg yesterday at her residence on Figueroa street, in honor of Miss Lida Scott of Evanston, Ill., and Miss Addie Murphy. The other guests were Mrs. H. L. Macneil, the Misses Alice Jones, Cornelia Hamilton, Ada Patterson, Fay, Klokke, Warnock and Florence Silent. The table was artistically decorated with La France roses and maldenhair, arranged in a large centerpiece and strewn over the cloth. The round place cards were decorated in water colors with pink flowers, and tied with pink ribbons. Pink and white cosmos, La France roses and ferns were massed about the room.

The regular meeting of the Ruskin Art Club yesterday morning was attended by a gathering of members that filled the rooms. The meeting was devoted to the subject of ancient painting in Europe and early Christian painting, and in the absence of Mrs. S. C. Hubbell, was led by Mrs. W. J. Washburn. Among those who read papers were Mrs. M. J. F. Stearns, H. G. Brainerd, Danskin, the Misses Crow and Coleman.

William R. Molony, who left yesterday for Denver, Colo., to pursue his medical studies, was given an enjoyable party Monday evening by a number of his friends at the residence of his parents on Prospect Place. The evening was devoted to cards, dancing, music and recitations. John Boland, president of La Mariposa Club, presented Mr. Molony with a gold pen from the members of the club. There were present:

One of the animals began to burn. The driver, uninjured, jumped from his seat and, leaving the horses for dead, started back to town, badly scared at his narrow escape. A wrecking crew started for the scene of the accident, where one of the animals was found to be alive, and to have recovered completely from the shock. The other was dead, and had been badly burned about the head, as was evidenced by the nauseating odor of burned fiesh which permeated the atmosphere.

FIRE BOARD ADMONISHES A DE-LINQUENT CALLMAN.

The Quarters of Engine Company No. 3 Inspected by the Commis-sioners-Ingenious Devices Employed-Swinging Stalls Used to nomize Space.

The weekly meeting of the Fire Commissioners yesterday morning proved very uneventful. The chief topics considered were the cases of delinquent callmen. J. S. Sloan was the first who was afforded an opportunity to explain his shortcomings. At the previous meeting of the board charges of neglect of duty were preferred against Sloan, and pending investigation, he Sloan, and pending investigation, he was suspended. Sloan is a callman of engine company No. 4, and it was charged that he had failed four times to respond to alarms of fire.

Sloan explained to the commissioners that on two of these occasions he had falled to hear the bell. He ac-knowledged that in another instance he failed to respond to an alarm. At still another time he turned out when the alarm sounded, but arrived too late to answer to the roll call. As he had been in the employ of the fire depart-ment for five years, and hitherto with-out attracting censure, he asked the leniency of the board. His plea was effective, for, on motion of Mr. Kuhrts the charge against Sloan was dismissed, but he was admonished that if three more failures to respond to alarms in a single month should be reported, he would be discharged.

A letter was read from John Noonan, ee fireman who was dropped from the ll last week on account of insubordiation and neglect of duly. Noonan ac become penitent and expressed ontrition for his shortcomings. He lid that his summary discharge was cely to prove a serious obstacle in his forts to obtain other employment, and etherefore asked the board to reconder its action and allow him to regn. The engine-house contains four pieces of apparatus, an engine, a chemical, a truck and a hose cart. As the floor area'is not large, it was a serious problem how to find room for all the apparatus. The difficulty was solved by Ed Smith, the Chief's assistant, who devised an ingenious method of economizing space. Swinging stalls were put in for the horses, and they were so constructed as to swing completely out of the way of the apparatus. The instant that the collar is snapped about a horse's neck, an automatic arrangethat the collar is snapped about a horse's neck, an automatic arrangement of weights and pulleys lifts the side of the stall, which the horse has just left, about a foot from the floor, and then swings it against the wall. Everything is arranged to insure precision of movement, and the automatic contrivances are very ingenious. Fifteen seconds after an alarm comes in the horses are hitched, the men are in their places, the stalls are swung back out of the way, and everything is in readiness for the run to the fire.

IAT THE COURT HOUSE.

SAN DIEGO WATER SUIT.

SUPREME COURT DECISION IN AN IMPORTANT CASE.

Has Direct Bearing Upon Water Contracts in Every City in the State-"Watered" Stock and the Fixing of Rates.

What is considered the most important decision handed down by the State Supreme Court at its present session was filed yesterday in the suit brought by the San Diego Water Com-pany against the city of San Diego. The case was decided in favor of the plaintiff, in the Superior Court, and an appeal was taken by the city. The Supreme Court reverses the judgment and orders a new trial, Chief Justice Beatty dissenting.

The decision is important from the fact that it has a bearing upon con-tracts between water companies and municipal corporations throughout the

In 1890 the Common Council of San Diego fixed the rates for water to be supplied by the San Diego Water Company for the following year. The company was dissatisfied with the rate established, contending that the rate would not net it sufficient revenue to meet the interest on bonds, pay expenses and leave a fair profit. The company further complained that the Council fixed the rates at a "star-cham-Council fixed the rates at a "star-chamber" session, and had not informed its efficers of the action being contemplated at that particular time, and that, therefore, there was no opportunity offered to object to the schedule prior to its final adoption.

The water company brought suit in

The water company brought suit in the Superior Court to have the ordinance declared invalid, setting forth in its complaint that to supply at the rates fixed, would make at the rates fixed, would make it im-possible to pay interest on the bonds, and other expenses, and a fore-closure must ensue. The court sustained the action. The city contended that it had fixed the rates, closure must ensue. The court sustained the action. The city contended that it had fixed the rates, based upon valuations, expenses, etc., in which the company could meet all its obligations and realize a fair profit upon its investment.

In dissenting from the decision handed down by the other members of the Supreme Court Chief Justice Beatty practically sustains the lower court upon every important point, holding that to force the water company to supply water at rates lower than it could honestly afford was equivalent to actual confiscation.

The decision of the court is as follows, except as to minor details, which have been eliminated:

"The plaintiff is a corporation engaged in supplying water to the city of San Diego and its inhabtants. In February, 1890, the Common Council of the city passed an ordinance fixing the water rates for the year beginning July 1, 1890. In May, 1890, the plaintiff brought this action against the city, the Common Council, the Mayor, and the individual members of the Council to annul this ordinance, and enjoin its enforcement. The complaint alleged in substance that the entire revenue which the plaintiff could receive during the year in question, under the rates so fixed, would be insufficient to pay its operating expenses and fixed charges for that year, and would therefore, afford no reward whatever to plaintiff for furnishing the water, and that the ordinance would deprive plaintiff of its property without due process of law, and without compensation. It was also alleged that by reason of certain fraudulent practices of a fair oppor-

of its property without due process of law, and without compensation. It was also alleged that by reason of certain fraudulent practices of a fair opportunity to be heard before the Council, and prevented from properly presenting its side of the case. The action was tried after the expiration of the year in question, and a judgment was entered declaring that ordinance to be void, and setting the same aside. From this judgment, and from the order denying their motion for a new trial, the defendants appeal.

"The findings of the court were in substance: That the property and plant of the plaintiff necessary to supply water to the city and its inhabitants actually cost $750,000; that the reasonable and necessary operating expenses of plaintiff for the year in question, and actually expended by it for that purpose, amounted to $40,000; that plaintiff was indebted upon its bonds for money borrowed, amounting to the sum of $1,000,000 bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum; of which $750,000 had been necessarily and properly expended for the construction of the plant; that the total receipts of plaintiff for the year in question derived from the rates fixed by said ordinance, could not be and were not greater than $65,788.65; that the annual depreciation of the plant on account of natural decay and use question derived from the rates fixed by said ordinance, could not be and were not greater than $65,788,65; that the annual depreciation of the plant on account of natural decay and use amounted to 31-3 per cent. of its value; that no dividends for the stockholders of plaintiff had been or could be earned from the rates fixed by said ordinance for said year; and that the rates so fixed were not just or reasonable."

The opinion touches only upon the main points involved:

"First—It is contended by defendants that under article 14 of the Constitution of this State, a court has no power, in the absence of fraud, to hold such an ordinance invalid merely because the court finds the rates fixed thereby to be unjust and unreasonable. We shall not attempt, in this opinion, to review the many cases on this subject. The Supreme Court of the United States has repeatedly decided that the power of the State to fix and regulate the rates of compensation to be charged by persons and corporations in charge of certain public utilities, is so limited by the Constitution of the United States that it cannot be exercised to such an extent as to require any such person or corporation to furnish its property or services without reward; and that, if the rates are fixed by legislative power, or otherwise than by appropriate judicial proceedings it is within the province of the courts to review such action, to the extent at least of ascertaining whether the rates so fixed will furnish some reward for the property weard for the property set and services furnished. To fix rates that will allow no such reward, is to take property for public use without just compensation. To this extent at least, then, the court was entitled to go "But appellants contend that in any event the court could do no more in yent the court could do no more in eviewing the action of the Common council than to say whether there was ro was not evidence produced before hat body sufficient to sustain its contractions of the contraction of the contraction of the court was not evidence to sustain its contraction. or was not evidence produced before that body sufficient to sustain its conclusions, and that the court was not at liberty to determine the question upon other and perhaps new evidence not produced before the Council, nor to substitute its judgment as to the reasonableness of the rates for the judgment of that body. In this contention we think that counsel entirely misconceived the nature of the functions respectively exercised under our constitution by the rate-fixing body, and by the courts. Whether the fixing of rates by the Council be called a legislative, a judicial, or an administrative act, it is certainly not an adversary judicial proceeding, such as under the constitution will conclude private right. It is a proceeding on the part of the government, to which neither the water company nor the rate-payers are parties, conducted without notice to them, and, without any right on their part to effectually intervene. Such a proceeding cannot operate to divest private rights, and, though the Supreme Court of the United Statesholds it to be a legitimate exercise of governmental powers, that court also holds that when it is carried so far as to deprive any one of his property without just compensation, it is an unlawful exercise of such power, and simply void. The function of the court is merely to ascertain whether the power has been carried beyond the constitutional limit so fixed, and, is uch be found to be the case to declare the acts of the Council void. They do not sit as appellate tribunals to review the correctness of the Council void. clare the acts of the Council void. They do not sit as appeliate tribunals to review the correctness of the Council's determination, nor need they know anything about the evidence on which that body has acted. All that they have to consider is whether in a given case the result of the Council's action will be to take the property of the complaining party without just compensation. That is a mixed question of fact and law, to be decided by the court upon the evidence produced before it.

"Second—On the other hand, the plaintiff contends that section I of Art.

"Second—On the other hand, the blaintiff contends that section I of Art. I4 of the constitution of this State is opposed to the Constitution of the United States in that it operates to deprive the water company of its property without due process of law. It is argued that no provision for the fixing of water rates by the tribunal thereby created can be valid without notice to those whose rights are to be affected, and an opportunity to them to acpear and defend, the right to which must be given by the Constitution itself. That no such notice or hearing is provided for, must be admitted; but the consequence contended for does not follow.

"In the first place, there is nothing in the pleadings or evidence in this case to show that any water rights or property of plaintiff, used in furnishing the water in question, were acquired before the adoption of the present constitution. We are enabled to perceive why the people of this State, in adopting that Constitution had not the right to declare that all water not then reduced to private ownership should thereafter every person undertaking the business of supplying cities or towns, or their inhabitants, with water should do so upon the condition that the rates to be charged therefore should be conclusively fixed by the State. Such a business is so far public in its very nature that the State might lawfully forbid its exercise by any private individual and, a fortiori, might impose such conditions and restrictions upon its exercise as might be thought proper. If, then, that section of the constitution should be construed as rendering the decision of the control absolutely final and conclusive, plaintiff at least could not be heard to complain. If it chose, with that section in force, to enter upon that business, it was bound to submit to the conditions on the conditions. The meaning it to the conditions of the conditions thereby imposed. The meaning iff at least could not be heard to complain. If it chose, with that section in force, to enter upon that businers, it was bound to submit to the conditions thereby imposed. The meaning of the section is, we think, that the governing body of the municipality, upon a fair investigation and with the exercise of judgment and discretion, shall fix reasonable rates and allow just compensation. If they attempt to act arbitrarily, without investigation, or without the exercise of judgment and discretion, or, if they fix rates so alpably unreasonable and unjust as to amount to arbitrary action, they violate their duty, and go beyond the powers conferred upon them.

"Third—This brings us, then, to the question whether the findings support the judgment. They show that the total receipts of the plaintiff from the rates fixed by the Council would be and were insufficient to pay plaintiff's actual and necessary operating expenses—indeed, would fall short more than $11.00. No circumstances requiring such a loss were found, and the findings that these actual charges were necessarily and properly incurred negative the existence of any such circumstances.

"It is apparent that the water comti collects and supplies, or the plant which it uses to collect and distribute that water, in the same sense in which a man is said to own his house or his farm. By the very nature of the use to which it is applied, the company has a man is said to own his house or his farm. By the very nature of the use to which it is applied, the company has devoted that property to a public use. Having once undertaken to perform that public duly, it must continue to perform it and must carry on its business under the lawful regulations of the government. In effect, the State may be said to have appropriated the water and the plant to public use. For that appropriation it is bound to make just compensation, and it has provided for such compensation by requiring the municipal authorities to fix just and reasonable rates at which the water is to be furnished to and received by the consumers. Since the State has 'taken' the use of this property, it is bound to provide a just compensation for that use. The question as to what is just compensation in such a case, is, we think, in all respects analogous to the question which arises in every case of appropriation under the power of eminent domain; and it may be reduced to the formula that the public must pay the actual value of that which it appropriates to the public use."

In determining such value, the court holds that there are but three standards, its market value, the probable cost to replace it, and the revenue it is capable of producing. This is held to be impracticable. The second method is pronounced inapplicable to property of this kind. The court then proceeds:

"We must then have recourse to the third standard of value—the revenue which the property is capable of producing. At the first blush, there might seem to be a difficulty in applying this standard; for the revenue received by the company will be absolutely controlled by the rates fixed, and no revenue can be otherwise collected. This difficulty has led one of the counsel in this case to contend that the rates must be so fixed as to enable the company to obtain precisely the revenue which it would realize if the rates were not regulated by the public at all. To this proposition we cannot assent. It is sufficient that the law recognizes that which it is applied, the company ha levoted that property to a public use Having once undertaken to perform the money reasonably and properly exsended by the company in acquiring its property and constructing its works. The State has taken the use of that money, and it is for that use that it must provide just compensation. What revenue money is capable of producing is a question of fact, and, theoretically at least, susceptible of more or less exact ascertainment. Regard must be had to the nature of the investment, the risk attendant upon it, and the public demand for the product of the enterprise. It would not, of course, be reasonable to allow the company a profit equal to the greatest rate of interest realized upon any kind of investment, nor, on the other hand, to compel it to accept the lowest rate of remuneration which capital ever obtains.

Comparisons must be made between this business and other kinds of business involving a similar degree of risk, and all the surrounding circumstances must be considered. An important circumstance will always be the rate of interest at which money can be borrowed for investment in such a business; and, where the business appears to be honestly and prudently conducted, the rate which the company would be compelled to pay for borrowed money will furnish a safe, though not always conclusive, criterion of the rate of profit which will be deemed reasonable. In ordinary cases, where the management is fair and economical, it would be unreasonable to fix the rate so low as to prevent the company from paying interest on borrowed money at the lowest market rate obtainable; and even then, some allowance or margin should be made for any risk to which the company may be exposed, oyer and above the risk taken by a lender. This being so, the existence of the bonded indebtedness on which so much stress has been laid, must be disregarded.

"It follows that we cannot say that the finding of the court below, that

on which its liability is left doubtful. Counsel for respondents have not attempted to answer these points. As the evidence is presented to us in an unsatisfactory shape, we will say no more than that it does not support the finding. It will be the duty of the court on a retrial to allow no item of expenditure which is not satisfactorily shown to be an actual and proper court on a retrial to allow no item of expenditure which is not satisfactorily shown to be an actual and proper charge in the actual conduct of the business of supplying water, and, when legal or other general expenses are claimed, they must be shown to have had a proper relation to that business. Of course, the items of expenses in the present action should be disregarded. The trial being had after the expiration of the year for which the rates in question were fixed, the amounts of revenue and expenses are capable of exact proof.

"With regard to the question of the depreciation of the plant by use, it is sufficient to say that ordinary repairs should be charged to current expenses." Fifth—Among other things, the court below found that the taking of evidence as to the value of the plantiff's plant and the rates that should be fixed by the Common Council of said city, during the month of February, 1890, for the year commencing July 1, 1890, was by said Common Council delegated to a joint committee, consisting of three members from the Board of Aldermen of said Common Council; that said joint committee proceeded to and did take evidence from the plaintiff and its officers, and other witnesses, for a number of days, and the plaintiff then being before said council; that said joint committee proceeded to and did take evidence from the plaintiff and its officers, and other witnesses, for a number of days, and that on the 21st day of February, 1890, the plaintiff then being before said committee by its attorney, said attorney inquired of said committee whether other evidence would be taken he, the said attorney, desired to be present, and especially that if evidence was given by members of the Board of Public Works of said city, or estimates were taken from said members of the value or cost of the plaintiff's plant, that he, said attorney, desired to be present and examine said members of the board of Public Works as to the evidence given by them or the estimates furnished; that it was announced by one of said committee at that time in the presence of the other members, that he did not know of any other evidence that was to be taken which was not disputed by the other member of the committee; that there, at that time, and immediately following the demand of said attorney as aforesaid, the City Engineer of said city, who was present, was privately and secretly informed that the committee desired to have him present at a meeting to be held the following day said committee met secretly and one Schuyler, a member of the value of said plant; that on the following day said committee met secretly and one Schuyler, a member of the Board of Public Works of said city, and took from them their estimates of the value and cost of every part of the distributing system, pumps, wells and other property of the plaintiff, not including its water rights, rights-of-way or real estate; that said meeting was held secretly in a back room of the Board of Aldermen, was held on a legal holiday when the offices of the city in the committee was adopted without change; that the plaintiff had no notice or knowledge of said meeting; that said estimates so furnished were largely less than the cost; that the report of said committee was adopted without change; that the altorney of plaintiff, said s so much of unfairness in the investigation had by the Common Gouncil as to overcome the presumption of the correctness of its decision. It was clearly the duty of the Council to give to the water company, at least when requested to do so, a reasonable opportunity to be heard, not merely for the purpose of presenting its own evidence, but also of explaining or overcoming, if it could, evidence presented by others. The company certainly was entitled to be present when evidence was being produced before the Council or its committee, or to be otherwise informed of that evidence and allowed to overcome it, if possible. The action of the committee, for which no' sufficient excuse was given, appears to have been taken for the very purpose of excluding the plaintiff when that evidence was received, and it therefore seriously impugns the fairness of the investigation. Indeed, such an investigation ought to be held publicly, and upon such reasonable public notice of the times and places of the meetings as will enable those interested to be present; and a neglect of this percaution, when unexplained, must always give rise to injurious suspicions.

"For the reasons above set forth the judgment and order appealed from are reversed, and the cause remanded for a new trial."

CARL REES ON TRIAL. Charged with Having Stolen

The trial of Carl Rees, charged with having stolen a typewriter from W. D. Tubbs at San Dimas, came up before Judge York and a jury yesterday after-letters to friends, some of which would not look well in print. Shortly after the robbery, a reward of $20 for the rethe robbery, a reward of $20 for the recovery of the typewriter was offered, and Rees, evidently considering that amount to be a good price for the machine, surrendered it to the officers and claimed the reward.

But the letters he had written brought Rees into the pending difficulty. A peculiarity in one of the characters in the typewriter, with which Mr. Tubbs was particularly familiar, was found in the printed missives,
which were yesterday admitted in evidence.

COMPROMISE APPROVED.

Judge Shaw Puts an End to the

The big fight that has been going between the creditors of Contractor E. F. Phelan and the Southern California Power Company over the appointment of a receiver was brought to a finish by Judge Shaw yesterday by the approval of a compromise agreement reached by the contestants. Phelan entered into a contract with the Southern California Power Company, July 17, 1897, to construct a canal near the Santa Ana Cañon, in San Bernardino county. After the con-tract had been signed, Phelan went through insolvency. At the time of the institution of the insolvency proceedings a large amount of work on the contract had been performed. Several claims for large amounts were outstanding against Phelan at the time, representing money due for materials.

standing against Phelan at the time, representing money due for materials, labor, etc.

The insolvency proceedings were supplemented by an injunction brought by one of the creditors against a continuance of work upon the canal until his claim had been paid. Thus all responsibility in the faithful performance of the contract fell back upon the power company, which was the contractor in fact, and which had sub-let the work to Phelan.

After considerable skirmishing and hard fighting in the Superior Court between the power company and the creditors, Gregory Perkins, Jr., was appointed receiver.

Meanwhile the work called for by the contract had been delayed, and the power company was suffering heavy daily loss.

Receiver Perkins came into court yesterday and announced that a compromise between Phelan's creditors and the power company had been reached in which the power company agreed to pay into the hands of the court for the benefit of the creditors the sum of $20,000.

The court approved the compromise, and ordered that the foreclosure issued upon the implements used by Phelan in the construction work be dismissed.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY HORTICULTURAL CONVENTION.

the Exchange System—Predic-tion That Bananas and Pincap-ples Will Yet Grow Here—Hotel Coronado Under New Manage

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 13.— [Regular Correspendonce.] There was a large attendance at the County Horicultural Convention yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. President Edward Judson of the solety of El Cajon was unable to preside on account of illness, and Vice-President G. P. Hall of Lemon Grove occupied the chair.

Mrs. Flora M. Kimball of National City read a paper on "Good Roads." Mrs. Kimball ursed the making of good roads throughout the county and the planting of propes shade trees along the highways.

W. H. Somers of El Cajon was on the programme for a paper on "Ratsins," but ha was not able to be present at the meeting. In a letter to the convention he referred to the importance of wide tires on wagons, and this brought out considerable of a discussion upon this subject favorable to the wide-tire law, which will go into effect in 1900.

A discussion on "Irrigating the Lemon" followed and occupied the time of the convention until the noon hour. Letters were had from twenty-one lemon-growers stating that from two to four times were sufficient to irrigate a lemon orchard during an ordinary season in San Diego county. Eighteen out of the twenty-one growers heard from use what is called the furrow system. From the growers heard from on "Caltivation of the Lemon," it was shown that the majority of them plow once or twice a year, usually in the fail and spring; that all cultivate frequently and deep, and that irrigation and cultivation together cost in different actions from the growers heard from on "Caltivation and cultivation together cost in different actions from the growers heard from from the growers heard from from the growers heard from on "Caltivation and cultivation together cost in different actions from the growers which have been cold by the sackange for the form of the from the partition of the from the growers which have been dependent on the fifth year in the fail of the fifth grower in the county. He will be called upon to put up bonds guaranteeing the faithful performance of the job, which must be compacted within thirty days, and the surface must be guaranteed to last three years without repairs. The purchase of the Austin reversible grader, at a cost of $255, was advocated by supervisor Cooley, who was backed up by the other members of the board. Action, however, was postponed, pending a decision from the District Attorney's office bearing upon the legality of such purchase without adverticing for bids.

Los Angeles Engineers Consulted About the New Sewer.

BANTA ANA, Oct. 13. — [Regular Correspondence.] President John Avas of the City Council returned to Fanta Ana last evening after a visit to Los Angeles to interview a number of competent engineers in regard to the plan for the new sewer. He consulted with several experienced mea, among them City Engineer Dockweller, and found their opinion in accord with that of the engineers here who prepared the plans. The details of the work were pronounced complete and thoroughly satisfactory.

The next step will be to employ an expert engineer to come to the city and make a careful investigation of the plans and specifications. The board will meet this (Wednesday) evening for action on this matter.

Another Shower Does no Good to Another Shower Does no Good to Crops—Off for Gold.

POMONA, Oct. 13. — [Regular Correspond-cnee.] Another shower fell today, which comes on the heels of a period of foggy weather. This makes but little difference to this immediate neighborhood, but is of great importance to the raisin and beet-sugar men. The Salwey peaches are just being handled, but their quantity is limited, and damage to them would be no great loss. The same can be said of prunes, the drying of which is near the end. But the growers of sugar beets need good weather and need it badly. The raisin people will lose nothing if clear weather follows, but so far fogs and showers have interfered greatly with the curing of the fruit.

Pomona has this year made a record of shipping sixty-four cars of dried fruit and twenty-four cars of canned fruit, and the cannery is still running a force of employées on tomatoes, which have met with ready sale. The shipments of grapes from town have reached twenty-three cars, and it is said that there are fifteen cars more to follow.

A party of Pomona people is about 20 leave for the Yaqui gold field. It is said there will be in the coimpany C. D. Ambrose, Capt. Pratt, Col. T. W. Brooks, F. A. Dowling, Henry Davis and E. D. Rice.

The Kingsley tract water-owners are discussing means for improving their domestic water service, and will probably put in a gas or electric motor for pumping water.

The Fomona Farmers' Club has elected off-focus for the ensuing year as follows: President, John Wasson; vice-president, C. B. Messenger; secretary, J. W. Mills; treasurer, Mrs. M. C. Y. Cooley.

Great preparations are being made for the Yawa concert, for the benefit of the Fruit and Flower Mission, which takes place Friday evening. In addition to the delightful concert which is sure to be given, the fact that the young ladies of the mission are behind the venture is calling out liberal patronage. This mission is practically the center of the charities of the city, and it noble work has won the setsem of everybody. to have sol

LITIGATION FOR WOOD.

The suit of H. C. Piotone against R. P. Parker, constable of Orange township, has been can trial in the Superior Court today.

Fifteen cords of wood ere in controversy and the plaintiff is seeking to have the constable transport the wood to his yard, from which place it was taken by the constable in attachment suit brought by W. H. Bartley against L. P. Heldman, which the former won. The wood was taken by the constable and hauled to a store yard to be sold. Later the judgment of attachment was set axide, and then lieldman undertook to have the wood brought back. His claim was ensigned to Pictner, who is courting Heldman's daughter, and brought suit to compel Parker to bring the wood to the Heldman household.

The case was tried in Justice Presman's court, where Piother obtained judgment. Parker then appealed the case to the Superior Court. It has not been concided.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Bestirring Itself to Get Street Sign Boards Put Up.

At the regular meeting yesterday of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce President Forman an-nounced that something should be done to facilitate the delivery of mall matter in the city limits by" asking the Council to put up sign boards on the corners, bearing the proper names of the streets, as 326 streets were renamed last February, and at the present time no sign had been erected designating the change. On motion of Director Patterson, a committee of five were appointed to appear before the Board of Public Works at their next meeting and urge that some action be taken immediately to the end that they may be properly designated. The chair thereupon appointed a committee consisting of Directors Patterson, Waters, Duque, Groff, Forman.

The secretary was instructed to subscribe for volumes one and two of the Commercial Directory of American Republics, which is now being compiled by the Bureau of American Republics at Washington.

The special committee appointed to the streets, as 326 streets were renamed publics, which is now being compiled by the Bureau of American Republics at Washington.

The special committee appointed to take up the matter of the publication of 100.000 pamphlets reported and asked for one week more in which to consider the proposition. It was granted. New members admitted to the Chamber of Commerce are: Allison Barlow, insurance; S. Long, tailor; C. J. Wade, secretary State Mutual Building and Loan Association; Buffalo Woolen Company, tailoring; Charles L. Hubbard, agent Aetna Life Insurance Company; Curtis-Newhall Advertising Company, newspaper and magazine advertising; Henry Roberti, mattress manufacturer; E. G. Judah, manufacturing agents Paraffine Paint Company; A. W. Ellington, druggist; R. E. Blackburn, journalist, Ontario, Cal., William Gibson, shoes; Frank C. Davis, attorney-at-law.

The prospects are fair for a large attendance at the convention to be held in the chamber on October 20 in the interest of deciduous fruits. In response to a call issued bw a number of grewers, many prominent men engaged in this business have expressed their intention of being present, stating in several instances what subjects they would be willing to discuss. Hon. L. J. Rose will give an account of his experience in raising and disposing of his deciduous crop. James Boyd of Riverside will talk on what and how to grow. J. A. Filicher of the State Board will talk on what and how to J. A. Filcher of the State Board ade, will discuss the foreign condition of our fruit trade; how to maintain and increase it. J. W. Mills, superintendent of the experimental station at Pomona, will give a talk on peaches. F. M. Douglas of Duarte will give some points on organization. C. C. Thompson of Pasadena will also talk on organization. Paul Seager of Santa Ana will talk on marketing fruits. A. R. Sprague of Palmdale wil

Valley.

Donations received at the chamber yesterday are as follows: H. P. Flint. Ventura, spring rye seven feet four inches high: wild oats, cultivated oats, German millet, black six-row barley, black two-row barley and blue barley. B. L. Reynolds, Covina, sweet potatoes. N. F. QUONG WO'S SEVEN SPOT. Another Chinese Lottery Case Ends in a Fiasco.

The difficulty of obtaining a conviction in a Chinese lottery case was again illustrated in Justice Morrison's court yesterday. This time it was no fault of the court or of the jury. The flasco was clearly due to the fall-down of the complaining witness and the sequestration of other witnesses for the prosecution, all brought about by machinations of the wily defendants and their friends, of course.

The defandants were Wong Chung and Wong Chung Gong, who were charged with drawing a lottery August 8. The complaining witness was Quong Ng Wo, who alleged that on that date Ng Wo, who alleged that on that date he drew a seven-spot, entitling him to a large sum of money which the defen-dants refused to pay. Needless to say that Wo was inspired by desire for re-venge when he made the complaint. Several hours were consumed in the empaneling of a jury when the case came to trial yesterday, and a bob-tailed jury of eleven had to suffice in the end.

alled jury of eleven had to suffice in he end.

Deputy District Attorney Chambers segan the case with the firm assurance that he would be able to secure a conviction, but it did not take him long after the taking of testimony began, to discover that his witnesses had gone began and a Chinaman, could not be found, and the rest of the Chinese witnesses subpoenaed by the prosecutionad managed to forget everything they ever knew about the guilt of the dendants. The deputy District Attorney became so thoroughly convinced that a Chinese Col. Maxuma had got in his work that he threw up the case without waiting to hear the defense. On motion of Mr. Chambers the complaint was dismissed and the jury discharged. Ah Mat, a Chinese Hockburn and Craig, was arraigned on the charge of running a place where lottery tickets were sold, lie pleaded not guilty and had his trial test for November 4.

FOSTER ACQUITTED.

The Rape Trial Brought to a Sudden Close.

John Foster, who has been on trial for alleged rape upon the person of Lee Mayne, a fourteen-year-old girl, at Downey last June, was acquitted by the jury yesterday upon instruction from Judge Smith. The prosecution had just announced that it had closed its case, and Foster's attorneys were about case, and Foster's attorneys were about to call the first witness for the defense, when Judge Smith interrupted the proceedings with the statement that so poor a case had been made out against the defendant, that it would be a mere waste of valuable time to further continue. The connection of the defendant with the alleged crime, he said, had not been established, and there was doubt, even in the mind of the Mayne girl, as to the identity of the man who assaulted her.
